

Terrific Transport

There are pictures and models of many different types of transport all over the museum

Have a look around and see how many different types of transport you can find

Which one would you choose to travel home in?

Find your favourite and draw it here

Explore Monmouth Museum

A trail for junior
explorers

Dastardly Descriptions!

A sneaky little game!

How to play

Find an object in the museum that you really like.
Don't let anyone else see what you are looking at!

Think of 5 words you can use to describe the object.

Share the 5 words with someone in your group and ask them to find the object you are describing

Here are some words to get you started

Beautiful

Plain

Rough

Bumpy

Shiny

Round

Hard

Old

Metal

Pottery

Decorated

Funny

Square

Heavy

Smooth

Wooden

Admiral Lord Nelson
famously lost his right arm in battle. He had to learn to write again with his left hand.

Which hand do you write with?

Have a go at writing your name in this box using your other hand.

You can see some of Nelson's writing here in the museum.
Look in the drawers next to the model of his ship, HMS Victory

What's in the box?

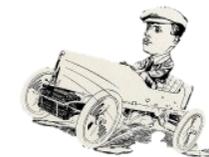

You can find this chest and discover what it held if you go upstairs.

Sailors like Nelson also used chests to transport and store their belongings when they went to sea—a bit like a suitcase!

Imagine you are going on a long sea voyage.
In the chest below write or draw all the things you would take with you

Marvellous Medals

Look around the museum and find the medals won by Charles Rolls

Clue—find the red display cases near a pirate ship! You'll need to look up!

What would you like to win a medal for?

Who was Charles Rolls?

Charles Rolls was a bit of an action hero, who lived just outside Monmouth! He raced cars and balloons and flew planes. If you look at the pictures of him on display you will see that he lived at a time when cars and planes were very new inventions.

Design your own medal

Did you know...

Charles Rolls and his partner Henry Royce founded the luxury car company Rolls Royce Charles Rolls' mum was Lady Llangattock. Find out more about her over the page.

Cool Collections

This is Lady Llangattock. Can you find her portrait in the museum?

Lady Llangattock was a big fan of Admiral Lord Nelson. She collected lots of objects connected with his life. When she died she gave them all to the town of Monmouth and that's why Monmouth has a Nelson museum!

Now create your own museum.

Choose your favourite objects in the museum and draw them in the boxes below.

Who was Nelson?

Admiral Lord Nelson was a very famous sailor. He fought many sea battles including the Battle of Trafalgar where he was killed.

Fakes and forgeries...

Sometimes objects are not what they seem!

Lady Llangattock bought things that were supposed to belong to Admiral Lord Nelson but which turned out to be fakes! You can see some of them in the display called Fakes and Forgeries.

Look around the museum and imagine that the objects on display are not what they appear to be.

Use your imagination and choose...

Something designed by aliens

Something you would give to a dragon as a present

Something that holds a secret

Something you would take to the future

Something you would give to a King or a Queen